
SUMMARY OF MAIN ARTICLES IN ENGLISH

THE CONTENT OF THE HUMAN RIGHT TO LIVE IN A HEALTHY AND SUSTAINABLE ENVIRONMENT

Le Hong Hanh⁽¹⁾

The right to live in a healthy and sustainable environment is the most important human right in the 21st century. On October 8, 2021, the United Nations Human Rights Council declared the right to live in a healthy and sustainable environment as a human right. Thus, after 30 years of debate, the right to live in a healthy and sustainable environment is officially recognized as a human right with universal value. The article analyzes some aspects of the human right to live in a healthy and sustainable environment.

OPPORTUNITIES AND CHALLENGES FOR EMPLOYEES REGARDING NET ZERO GOAL AND SOLUTIONS FOR VIETNAM

Nguyen Thi Hoai Le⁽²⁾

Net Zero goal has strongly affected the world in all aspects including production, consumption and human life. Along with that, it has a considerable impact on the labor market and brings opportunities as well as challenges to the workforce, in which, some labor sectors will be reduced and some others will be increased. By applying document analysis method, the article points out the opportunities and challenges for the labor market regarding Net Zero target, from that showing what employees and policy makers need to do to proactively take this trend. It includes the need to focus on measures so as not to widen the gap between rural and urban areas and the gap among population groups; the need to reach a consensus in the whole society to both ensure the equipping of workers with skills and ensure social security, and focus on creating training programs to equip not only knowledge but also skills for workers.

⁽¹⁾ Editor-in-Chief of the Journal of Law and Development.

⁽²⁾ Institute of Human Studies, Vietnam Academy of Social Sciences.

THE ISSUE OF JUSTICE AND THE GOOD IN THE DEBATE OF LIBERALISM AND CONTEMPORARY WESTERN COMMUNITARIANISM

Nguyen Hung Vuong⁽³⁾
Tran Xuan Hiep⁽⁴⁾

Good and justice are the core in the debate of liberalism and contemporary Western communitarianism, in which the relationship between religious good and political justice is an important issue. Liberals believe that political justice should take precedence over good, but communitarians oppose that idea and advocate that “good should take precedence over justice.” physical”. Rorty and Taylor are two typical representatives of these two opposing schools. The two men used their own views of political philosophy to argue with each other, forming two typical eclectic schools in the history of contemporary political philosophy. However, the discussions of the two philosophers have not yet resolved the impasse about the relationship between political justice and religious good.

DEALING WITH THE FAKE NEWS ABOUT COVID-19 ON SOCIAL NETWORKS OF STUDENTS OF ACADEMY OF JOURNALISM AND COMMUNICATION

Pham Huong Tra⁽⁵⁾
Dang Van Trang⁽⁶⁾

The article analyzes the behavior of a group of students from the Academy of Journalism and Communication in response to COVID-19 fake news on social networks. The results show that students using many social networks, owning a large social network that creates opportunities to access many COVID-19 information streams, but it also requires the ability to identify, verify, and behave in a civilized manner in handling and controlling fake news. A remarkable finding is that the majority of students regularly check the pandemic information through mass media, official social networking sites of authorities; but just over 60% of students take action to prevent fake news, mainly within the sphere of personal influence.

⁽³⁾ Faculty of International Studies, University of Foreign Languages, University of Danang.

⁽⁴⁾ Faculty of Social Sciences and Humanities, Duy Tan University, Da Nang.

^{(5), (6)} Academy of Journalism and Communication.